

Attendre is designed to help companies speed up employee sign-in/sign-out time. It does this by letting you easily track in/out times for each employee, allowing you to quickly calculate overtime, hours spent on project, and other information. With Attendre's role based security, you can prevent unauthorized employees from accessing certain parts of the system. You can even block users based on their user level or the number of times they have been locked out of the system. Attendre's reports are easy to read and print. Attendre is the ideal solution for companies needing to track their employees' attendance, and other activities, including:

- Companies that use Attendre as their way of helping their employees get to work on time.
- Companies that want to enforce a dress code and help their employees comply.
- Companies that allow their employees to complete work outside of their regular hours.
- Companies that want to allow their employees to take breaks or "check out" if they need to.
- Companies that want to help their employees take care of personal business.
- Companies that allow employees to sign-in from their home computers.
- Companies that require attendance from other companies in the same family or branch office.
- Companies that want to track employee overtime.
- Companies that want to track daily activities and daily schedules for each employee.
- Companies that want to track the status of employee vacation and sick leave.
- Companies that want to track employee leave and vacation and sick time.
- Companies that want to have a real-time view of their employee's in/out time for each day and week.
- Companies that want to limit access to certain parts of the Attendre system based on employees' roles or functions.
- Companies that want to track and report on the in/out times of all their employees, including employees that are part of a department.

Attendre Features:

- Fast & Easy: To get the job done quickly, Attendre's easy, intuitive interface allows you to easily track in/out times for each employee, and view employee attendance.
- Advanced Security: Attendre provides role based security, so that only those employees with the appropriate authority can access certain parts of the
