An essay or paper on "Total Overdose" in the free samples below! This morning I took a little walk through the garden and noticed a beautiful group of pink and white flowers that were out in the sun. It's too early in the year for the seasonals to be blooming, but these bright, cheerful flowers are standing out in the low-growing borders that allow them to thrive. For your Spring flowers here are some of my favorites that you might also enjoy: Here are four offerings that you can see online now that are fresh from last week's Spring buyers market in California. We picked our spring flowers from many nurseries and growers this time and it was a great time to see what everyone was bringing to the market. They are of course all fabulous and available now. Just click on their names to be taken to their current available Spring flower offerings. Orchid is another Spring specialty that I love. It is the earliest bloomer in many parts of the country so it is time to start thinking about those orchid sprouts that are beginning to appear in your garden. Spring is also the best time to sow containerized transplants as you are giving them the best start by carefully taking them out of the container. Here is the updated list of Spring orchids available for sale: One of my favorite Spring bloomers is clematis. You probably know that clematis flower for a long period of time. Clematis are reputed to be good to eat as well - but I am not so sure that I would want to eat any of them. I love the splash of color they bring to the garden and their fragrance is soothing. Here are the best clematis sprouts that are available now: And finally here are some blooming shrubs that were available from the California market this Spring. You can see the order form for this group of shrubs online. This is a good time of year to plant a shrub - either in the front or back of the border. They are all flowering now but will stay in bloom through the summer and into early Fall. Here are the best shrubs available now: Spring is the time of year when I become most enchanted with Clematis and Azaleas. I love the Spring fragrance of the flowers and I just love how they provide an explosion of color. Here are some of the Clematis and Azalea blooms available right now:Human

The Sea of Sand Cities on the Persian Gulf, like Julfa, are built into the soft, rounded hills where they were dug. “When you get a pile of sand, they will dig a mountain out of a valley,” says Abdulla. “Then they fill it in again.” Most of the urban areas of Julfa are set into hills where they were built, but all of Julfa’s houses are built right on the beach. That’s why the beaches, which are nicely rectangular, get narrow towards the sea. The approach from the city is a wide plain of sand covered with houses, the Sea of Sand. The Sea of Sand is a land of dunes, and the dunes are lined with houses, too. As the dunes are somewhat slender, they’re better for swimming in than for walking on. There are no roads, just dirt paths through the dunes. The whole area, and most of the city, was covered in sand when the Shah's army was here. The Sea of Sand stretches north to the oil-rich city of Ahvaz. At the mouth of the Shatt al-Arab is the tiny rocky island of Bab al-Mandeb. It's a perfect place to claim you were either from the Maldives or the British Virgin Islands if you're a hundred and fifty kilometers out to sea. The shoals of the Strait are particularly treacherous. If there's an east wind blowing off the Gulf, those shoals can be treacherous as well. The Gulf gets wider as the tribes come in from the desert. "It becomes a sea of sand because of all the snow in the mountains," says Abdulla. "We live in
