Infowars.com Videos:It is a generally accepted practice to fit couplings in the ends of pipelines for the purpose of preventing leakage of the contents of the pipeline. Such a coupling has been shown in U.S. Pat. No. 3,403,901 to Aitken. Such a coupling is typically of the "passive" type, as shown in the patent to Aitken. Such a coupling is designed to function with a minimum amount of effort. However, when used in a wellhead or production string, it is possible for vibration to cause the coupling to fall off. Other types of couplings are known, such as couplings which can be made to be set by application of force. Thus
