I have really liked the idea of the game, but quite frankly I don't think that it has enough content to stand out from the rest of the games out there (which are many). I like that the game has a unique art style, but the story is very generic. It also doesn't give you enough information to really care about any of the game's character. The gameplay itself is really fun, but the game drags very easily when the battles start and end. The combat feels very stale when the battles come to a complete standstill, with the player waiting in anticipation for the game to end. The bosses in the game have weak attacks and weak attacks in the middle of a long battle. It feels like the game is just repeating the same battle routine over and over in order to keep your interest. Another thing that grinds my gears are the passive skills. Passive skills are basically skills that appear as items in the loot boxes. You have to wait a really long time in order to get a good passive skill. The difficulty feels really bad when playing on the "coastal" difficulty. The game makes it so easy to do max damage with attacks that it's a complete waste of time. The game is very short. I am only at level 20 or so and I have already completed the game. The game doesn't have a storyline, and that is the one thing that bothers me. The game doesn't have many unique ideas, so it's hard to get an adrenaline rush from the game. The gameplay itself is really fun, but the game drags very easily when the battles start and end. The candidate wishing to learn all of the abilities of the Elden Ring is given the same amount of time per day to perform magic with their own hands, and if they perform a job that results in a natural increase in skills, they will obtain those skills. All in-game jobs are the same, except for the one that changes each day, and can be changed at the job gauge at any time. For the in-game world that is designed to move, they are jobs that change according to the situation, and are performed with commands and objects that are displayed on the right side of the screen. The skills of the game will reflect the various possibilities that the candidates can form, but the changes will not take effect until the candidate first uses their abilities. In addition, the candidate's progress will be displayed on the upper right in the form of a gauge. 1. RISE All in the name of the DAWTHYOMIN, a hero who is said to have lived for 300 years, and a woman rumored to have once wielded the power of destruction. The name of the DAWTHYOMIN is said to have been born from the ashes of a burning forest, and the name of the woman, is said to have been born from an unknown stone. In this game, Rise, Tarnished, a DAWTHYOMIN candidate that has been summoned, is given a great power bestowed upon them. The term Tarnished means that the candidate has been corrupted by the power they now possess. This power will also corrupt the character of the DAWTHYOMIN candidate, as they are no longer human. This DAWTHYOMIN candidate takes the form of a girl, and the name will be "RISE, Tarnished". The name is said to be the same as the name of the summoner. There is a catch, however; since the name is the same, this means that the personality of the person who summoned her will also be the same. As a DAWTHYOMIN candidate, Rise, Tarnished will increase their physical strength, and their statistics. In addition, Rise, Tarnished will use magic to take actions in the world while fighting enemies. The amount of power that Rise, Tarnished will use for their abilities is determined by the growth of their skills. Rise, T
