07/11/2020.I'm in a bit of a pickle in my playing habits, now. I used to play just MythX darks (as you do),

but now MythX is basically a major one-trick pony. I'm actually planning a bigger economy for my next game, so my playing habits could change. So what I'm doing is, to get a feel for the longer economy, I'm running MythX Core Set. This is a singleton economy where I gather all the tiles on the gameboard, then play until the Game Goal is achieved. To play Core Set, I'm normally playing with cards and zones. But Core Set makes zones impossible, as there are too many to easily put into a deck, as there are only 6 cards. So instead, I have for example, 9, 3 or 7 of each tile, then the rest are zone building tiles. This is a bit of a pain in the arse, since you have to put tiles in your deck, then shuffle it every time. So I'm experimenting with another tactic. I'm going to start playing with no decks, and just shuffle a deck of tiles at the start of every game, and take out whatever tiles I need to play. This means that when I'm playing with Core Set, I have no deck on me. It just goes in a bag, and that bag becomes my deck. What that means is: A. If I'm playing with Core Set, I no longer have the cards for the longer deck. B. So I will have to build a longer deck. C. I won't have to shuffle to get the new set of cards. But, I guess what I'm hoping is, that I can build a longer economy in one of these games where I'm playing Core Set. What do you think of this idea? Am I crazy? Hey! Yep, it's a great idea, especially if you manage to build a good economy for this. I think that is very likely and I did the same thing when I started playing Microscope and was playing Core Set.

---
