CASCADE Since AutoCAD 2006, BIM is supported. Cascading is a term used in several Autodesk products to refer to products that can be built upon by other similar products. CASCADE is an architecture-based BIM model. Its creation and management is performed using a web-based user interface on the AutoCAD Web Connect server. It supports a number of file formats including the native CAD file format as well as DWG, DGN, PDF, DXF, EMF and JPG. BIM 360 BIM 360 (for Autodesk products 2011) is a unified architecture for BIM. It is a complementary to the now discontinued 'BIM Suite' package for Autodesk products 2008 and later.
