I am dynamically creating the listview inside a dialog. Is there a way to check if a item is long pressed before it gets added to the list? A: A bit of a late answer, but this could be useful for others: You can use the CheckedTextView class in your layout. Like this: To add this to your view layout, open your layout file and add: For the android:text property, use the same string as you are using for your strings.xml file. If you use a string value directly from strings.xml, you can access it as in the following: Your text
