In addition to being extremely slow, it looks like it's only processing the last line of the file, or possibly the end of the input stream. This is what I've done:

func printOutFile(fileName: String) { print(fileName) if FileManager.default.fileExists(atPath: fileName) { do { try FileManager.default.removeItem(at: fileName) } catch { print("File cannot be removed") } } let fileManager =

FileManager.default let url =
URL(fileURLWithPath: fileName)
do { let documentsPath = try file Manager.URLsForDirectory(.docu
mentDirectory, inDomains:.userD omainMask).first let filePath = do cumentsPath.appendingPathComponent(fileName) try fileManager.copyItem(at: url, to:
filePath) } catch { print(error) } }
A: Change your loop to: for line in contentsOfFile { //convert string to NSString let parsedString = line as! NSString // add to array if let _ = messageArray.insert(parsedS
```

```
tring as String, at: IndexPath) { messageArray.insert(parsedString, at: IndexPath) } else { messageArray.append(parsedString) } }

It might not be pretty but I don't think you are using a regular expression. The important thing is to have the loop
