For 2,600 years, our best friends have been things that make sound: trumpets, harps, tubas, drums, harmoniums, accordions, electric guitars, basses, pianos, and, of course, voices. (Singing, too, although the syllables never quite reach our ears at the right speed. A language evolves not with shouting but with whispers. Otherwise, we'd all be Bengali instead of English.) The vocal chords--and the lungs, as well, the sinuses, the vocal folds, and the vocal cords--have conspired together to create a miracle: sound. But what happens when that miracle comes to life on an endless loop and starts spouting random stuff? To find out, we sent Dave D'Errico, the host of Discovery's "How Stuff Works," to the United States Pavilion for Expo 2000 in Japan, where the ancient technology of loudspeakers is a novelty. published:18 Feb 2013 Best Mobile Camera for All on the go published:21 Jan 2016 The best camera for kids Best camera for kids | quality #1 - the #1 camera for kids The winner in the portable camera category the best camera for kids is the YI 4K.
