You can, of course, also tweet about the information that you find on GetApp. Hi Mynamemoving,

I've just left Photoshop & come over to Lightroom, it's a much better option.

Even my daughter uses Lightroom not Photoshop & she's a college student studying photography.

I used Photoshop CS6, & I didn't like it, it was confusing and slow to work with.

I do a lot of work on my Mac with apps that are quieter than Photoshop & have much better performance, so I'm interested in the performance of Lightroom.

The most useful part of my workflow is organising my images, creating themes, putting together collections with my favourite images.

My workflow is:

- Take photographs
- Organise on Mac by year, by last used etc.
- Go into 30m depth and tag the images
- Sort sets by group (family pics, holidays, food pics, etc)

I use Shotwell primarily for organising images & tagging, but use it to take & organise my films.

I have found that Adobe Bridge isn't that useful to me, I did like the settings & controls in Lightroom but it doesn't have the features that I use in my workflow.

If I still wanted to use Photoshop, I'd be looking at upgrading to CS7 to have the tablet functionality, annotations & scripting.
